

The 2020 show is the 10th UK CONCRETE Show and to celebrate, we've got big plans for Europe's Number 1 Concrete Event!

Over the course of 2019, we'll be revealing significant changes in the layout and structure of the industry showcase that will result in a more dynamic and hands-on experience for both visitors and exhibitors.

As the newly appointed Head of Sales for the show, I'm delighted to be embarking upon the sales year for what promises to be a truly memorable show in our 10th birthday year.

"If it ain't broke, don't fix it" is the old adage, so making structural changes to a successful event like The UK CONCRETE Show is not an endeavour to take lightly however I feel it is extremely significant that we have the show founder, Steven Callaghan, back at the helm.

Steven brings extensive hands-on experience not only of the show itself, but a lifetime spent in almost every part of the concrete industry. He is not simply a show organiser - he understands all of the products in the hall and what they do, he has had his boots filled with concrete by a pump operator, screeded and finished slabs, designed, tested and marketed cementitious products and conducted training all around the World.

He has great plans for the 2020 show that we will be revealing as the year passes and I look forward to speaking to you about them and how they will impact the size and positioning of your show stand.

If you have any questions or need a quote for a stand, please do not hesitate to contact me by either telephone or email.
